In the last year, homeowners are getting even more use of their homes. With all this time indoors, individuals are beginning to value products that are efficient and practical, while also being beautiful and luxurious. Bathrooms are especially getting reevaluated by designers and homeowners as they provide the perfect opportunity to combine style with utility. Brands have noticed this call for stylish practicality and have come out with new pieces that create the perfect opportunity for designers and homeowners to dip their toes into a new home design or remodel.
